'COT HARVEST FALLS BELOW ESTIMATED TONNAGE THIS YEAR

Price Increase May Not Offset Losses by Short Crop

One of the smallest apricot harvests in the history of this district is in the final stages this week as fruit dryers are engaged in scraping. Last year, and in years previous, harvest activities were just well under way at this time and did not reach their peak until two weeks later.

Estimates of tonnage, made previous to the harvest, proved in many instances to be high. The actual fruit harvested was far below tonnage predicted in numerous orchards. Some growers, however, report that their crop was almost normal, particularly on the younger trees.

Considerable fruit was lost this year during the ripening time due to brown rot, following in the wake of untimely rains. An exaggerated drop added to the loss.

A series of very hot days late in June and early in July are blamed for a rapid and uneven ripening in many orchards. It was necessary to pick quantities of fruit that was relatively green at the stem and thoroughly ripe at the tip. Growers stated that cutting was made difficult by sticking pits in many cases.

Reported extensive in the Oakland district this year, damage by honey bees was noticed in this district. It is said that a shortage of the bees' natural food caused them to attack fruit orchards, particularly fruit that had ripened.

The visible shortage of dried fruit this year and the absence of any carryover, has resulted in an increased opening price. The initial quotations of the California Prune and Apricot Growers Association, for the first payment to members for the 1934 crop, lists prices at three cents above prices for 1933. Packers have made tentative offers for fruit at increased rates.

TRUCK BURNS AFTER ACCIDENT NEAR IRVINGTON

A truck, owned by the O. K. Trucking company of 4th and Franklin streets, Oakland, was badly damaged late Tuesday afternoon, when it caught fire after crashing into a truck owned by the P. C. Hansen Lumber company near Irvington. The Hansen truck was slightly damaged.

The Centerville fire department responded to the call and saved the big vehicle from complete destruction by the flames.

A. Smith, driver of the O. K. truck was slightly singed. He leaped from his vehicle just in time to avoid being severely burned.

TOWNSHIP SHOCKED BY 2 SUICIDES LAST WEEK

POLICE VIGILANCE PREVENTS OUTBREAK AT DECOTO CANNERY

Alleged "Reds" Dispersed
After Demonstration
At Hayward Plant

Private police, of the Hitchcock Patrol, are on duty this week to prevent interference from strikers and alleged radicals at the Pearce cannery plant at Decoto, following an attempt made late last week by communists to foment trouble among the workers.

According to reports, the trouble was averted by the vigilance of county officers, who followed eight automobiles filled with the alleged radicals from Hayward, where workers at the California packing company plant had been bombarded with rocks after they had refused to walk out.

The officers were called to the Hayward scene when the demonstrators threatened to damage cars belonging to workers in the plant. After forcing the delegation to move on, the officers trailed them to Decoto. Quick action of police prevented the alleged reds from leaving their cars. There was no violence at the Decoto plant, cannery officials stated.

ROAD MAINTENANCE BASE MAY LOCATE HERE PERMANENTLY

Canyon Highway Problem
Said to be Factor
In Naming Site

A permanent base for a state highway maintenance camp may be the result of the renting of the old P. C. Hansen lumber yard site on Third street, Niles, recently, by the state.

Contrary to reports issued last week, the property was not purchased, but rented for an indefinite period. A crew of six men under the supervision of E. Piniore is working from the new yard at the present time.

It is said that Niles is considered as the logical center for a base since the taking over of a number of secondary roads by the state system. The Niles Canyon road, among those taken over, presents an annual problem because of slides. This may be a deciding factor in the location of a permanent maintenance site.

Niles Man Stabbed In Battle Here July 4th

Harry Carr, of Niles, was jailed on a charge of drunkenness early last week after an alleged brawl on July 4.

Jack Guzman, also of Niles, may lose the sight of one eye as a result of the fight, in which Guzman's sister, Mrs. Carr, is said to have participated.

According to reports Guzman was stabbed in the eye by Mrs. Carr. He refused to sign a complaint against her, however. Carr was taken into custody by deputy sheriff Hugo Radbruch.

Former Water Official Ends Life Thursday At Alvarado

BOTH KNOWN LOCALLY

Decoto Merchant Takes
Own Life Saturday
After Illness

Recently out of work, 65 year old Lars Matlin, former San Francisco water department surveyor, shot himself in the head with a small calibre rifle at Alvarado last Thursday. The body was discovered by Ray Cushing and Fred Hafen several hours after the suicide had occurred.

According to reports, Matlin, who was registered at the Riverside hotel, entered Tony Mello's barber shop at 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning and was shaved. After leaving Mello's place, Matlin purchased several bottles of beer and went to his car, which was parked nearby.

Officers who investigated said that he must have shot himself immediately after getting into the vehicle. Discovery of the body was not made until 3:30 Thursday afternoon.

It is said that Matlin had been unemployed since June 1. He is survived by a daughter, who lives in Oakland, and a son, said to be a resident of Lodi.

Funeral was Saturday in Oakland from the Grant D. Miller mortuary.

A. Ramos Suicide
Said to be in poor health, and dreading another operation, Antonio Ramos, 41-year-old Decoto merchant, took his own life Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock at his place of business at 405 Fourth street, Decoto.

Ramos was well known in the Decoto district, where he had befriended innumerable people in unfortunate circumstances. He ran the Ramos Mercantile Company. His funeral, held Monday, was one of the largest ever seen in that district. Burial was in the Holy Sepulchre cemetery at Hayward, following services at the Corpus Christi church, Niles. Funeral was under direction of the Chapel of Palms.

According to police who were immediately called to the scene, Ramos had shot himself through the head. He was discovered dead by his wife, Mrs. Mary Ramos, Ralph Lopez and John Ruperte, who were on the premises at the time and heard the shot.

Ramos was a native of Spain. He had lived in Decoto for sixteen years, and was the father of six children.

BATTERY TRIAL TO BE HELD AFTER POSTPONEMENT

Trial of Joe Morella, of Niles, for the alleged beating of Frank Spiceland, Niles merchant on June 26, was postponed from Friday July 6 until tomorrow.

Postponement followed a recommendation by Judge J. A. Silva that Morella be given time to arrange his plea, and secure the public defender to take his case. Previous to the time for the trial Friday, the accused man had made no statement as to his guilt or innocence.

Morella is said to have beaten Spiceland severely about the head with a club when the storekeeper demanded payment for a tin of tobacco.

Tough Bear Cub Outgrows Home

BRUIN HAS GROWN up. He has grown so fast, and with such a corresponding increase in bad temper, that Matt Whitfield, of Mission San Jose, has decided something must be done about it.

Bruin is a brown bear cub belonging to Dr. E. M. Grimmer, who captured him on the Klamath river last October. The little fellow weighed only twelve pounds then and was quite a pet. He became the mascot at Bowles hall, on the University of California campus, with Elmo Grimmer as his overseer, until his morose disposition made him unmanageable.

He was brought to Mission San Jose last May, where he has a long chain and a box near Whitfield's house on the Sam Metzger place. Attempts were made to find him another home, where there were no children, but prospective masters heard him snort, and saw him tug at his chain, and turned the offer down.

So Bruin will be bundled off—all forty-five pounds of him—to Sequoia Park in Oakland, where he can make faces at his furry fellows from behind the mesh of a spacious cage.

FREEDOM OF PRESS IS ISSUE IN COURT RACE

Supporting George Edward Acret, Epic candidate for associate justice of the state supreme court, Norman H. Parks, accompanied by Mrs. Parks, attended a meeting at the Civic Auditorium in Oakland Tuesday evening, where Parks "took a bow" as the "fighting editor of Imperial Valley," a sobriquet acquired when Judge Ira B. Thompson, of Los Angeles, in a special session of court, called for the purpose, gave Parks the limit—five days in jail and $500 fine—for having the temerity to criticize his decision in a case affecting adversely the destinies of nearly 60,000 people, residents of Imperial county.

Thompson, the incumbent, appointed to the state supreme bench last year by Rolph, is opposed for the position on the state supreme bench now, by Acret, who is using as one of his campaign issues this case which arose out of Thompson's decision against the people and in favor of the power interest in the fight to kill the Swing-Johnson (Boulder Dam) bill.

Acret, who is standing on his reputation for championing the people's cause, cites this case as an outstanding example of Thompson's intolerance and his perfect accord with the wishes of "Big Interests," or rather "Big Money."

Freedom of the people, freedom of speech and freedom of the press, all of which are near to the heart of George E. Acret, are practically unknown terms to the present incumbent, Ira B. Thompson.

Harry Green On Trip to Europe this Summer

H. Beck Green, formerly of Niles, sailed from New York recently on the liner Franconia for a stay of several months in Europe.

Green, who is a member of the teaching staff at the Columbia experimental school, will return to the United States sometime in September. He plans to tour the continent and spend some time in England and Scotland.

He embarked on the trip in the interest of furthering his professional studies in art and education. He is the son of Mrs. Fred Mitte, of Niles.

LOCATION OF PIPE CONSTRUCTION PLANT AT NEWARK ASSURED

Rail Facilities Prove Deciding Factor in Site Selection

Location of the American Steel and Concrete Pipe Company plant at Newark is assured, it is said, following the offer of a centrally located tract by the Southern Pacific company.

A side track, one of the features that blocked negotiations for the location at Niles, runs directly through the Newark piece.

According to members of the Niles Chamber of Commerce executive committee, the cost of laying a siding into either of the two tracts offered here is prohibitive. It is estimated that the total cost for a suitable arrangement, including track and water connections, would have been from $1,200 to $1,500.

The Newark site, in addition to the existing siding, is traversed by the San Francisco Water Department pipeline, which will afford an abundant supply of water free of cost. The Newark site, offered by the railroad company for a nominal sum, will entail the cost of electrical connections only.

The first Niles location, situated between the Dickey Tile and International Wood plants, called for the construction of a 400-foot rail spur, plus piping of water from a nearby main. The second site proposed, that of the former Ames pump works south of the town, while close to the gravel supply was scarcely large enough, pipe company officials said. Obstacles to construction of a siding presented themselves in the form of sundry cannery out-buildings and foundations.

Inasmuch as a large portion of the pipe work will be in the bay crossing (8,000 feet), it is thought that the Newark site will be more central. Gravel, to be taken from the Niles plants, may be moved to Newark by rail.

According to E. A. Ellsworth, the proposition to get the pipe concern here presented financial obstacles insurmountable by the town. He stated that efforts will be made to offer the best housing facilities possible for a portion of the 200 workers to be employed at the plant.

MANUEL L. BROWN, 82, DIES FRIDAY AT MISSION

Residents of the Miss San Jose district and of Washington township in general were saddened Friday to hear of the death of Manuel Leal Brown, 82 year old Mission rancher.

Brown, who had lived near Mission San Jose for many years was considered as one of the ablest farmers of the region. He had been ill for some time.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Brown and by two brothers, Antonio Leal Brown, of Mission San Jose and John F. Brown, of Irvington. He was a member in good standing of the U. P. E. C. Council No. 10, Mission San Jose. Funeral was Monday at 9:00 a. m. from the Brown home. High mass was said at the St. Joseph's church at 9:30 o'clock. The Rev. Father Leal officiated. Interment was in the St. Joseph's cemetery.

Dr. N. Catherine Holden pending opening of an office in Niles, will conduct business at the Broza residence north of Niles. Phone Niles 48.—M10tf.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

By NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

HOW ABOUT IT, BROTHER!

Acting Governor Merriam in ordering out the state militia to restore order and open the free channels of business, has elicited no comment from a single metropolitan paper of the bay district. The Merriam order was either right or wrong, and we are anxious to have an opinion from our big brothers in San Francisco and Oakland before we form our own. They are on the ground and ought to know the merits of the industrial controversy. But—

Well, we guess we must seek elsewhere for an opinion.

THE EDITORIAL OSTRICH

Nothing that ever has happened before can be a true guide for political prophets this year. Take Upton Sinclair. Not a word about him in the papers. Down in Los Angeles, when printing the complete filings for state offices, every paper in that city but one, left his name out of the list. Of course, that was small potatoes, but it shows that to ignore a cyclone is very foolish. Like the silly ostrich burying his head in a sand pocket to avoid danger, the professional politician is equally as ludicrous in pretending to know nothing about the Pasadena author who at this very moment has the democratic nomination for governor in the bag.

While the writer is not a democrat or a socialist, we cannot understand why any New Dealer should shy at the name of Sinclair. His plan is not nearly so radical as the original Roosevelt policies. He proclaims no annoying interference in individual enterprise, no curtailment of your liberties, no flinging together loosely of certain letters of the alphabet as a panacea for all political and industrial ills. Fact of the matter, like it or not, Sinclair is running on the only real, definite platform so far promulgated by any candidate for governor.

You can't beat him by sticking your editorial head in the sand.

UNDER THE GUISE OF "NEWS"

If youth is less moral than when you and we were girls and boys, then don't blame the present generation now reaching their majorities. The stuff printed, under the privilege of news, is certainly enough to make any immature mind think virtue is a foolish thing, and free love a privileged lark.

Of course you read a few days ago about some convention or other in the East. Professors and scientists generally, and even ministers, were vying one with another to proclaim continency before marriage a ridiculous thing. Some went so far as to state that they had advised their own sons and daughters to embrace the new idea of promiscuity in the pre-nuptial state. As long as newspapers carry this type of "news," lecturers talk it, theaters enact it, the people—young people and old—will embrace it. Don't blame the youth. Put the blame where it belongs—with the press, the educators, the theater and even the pulpit—all controlled by bald-headed men, and flat-breasted women.

GROWERS URGED TO BEWARE OF 'COT THIEVES HERE

Fruit thieves, following on the heels of an abnormally short apricot crop this year, made their appearance in Washington township this week to harass growers.

Tony Garcia, who operates one of the largest dryers in the southern part of the county, lost a quantity of dried fruit Sunday night, when unidentified thieves entered his drying field and scraped a number of trays.

A watchman, engaged to keep an eye on the property at night, is said to have heard the noise and fired a shot into the air. He searched about the field with his light but saw nothing out of order. The miscreants had apparently fled with the sound of the shot.

Growers are urged to remove all fruit possible from the drying fields and place it under lock and key this season. Fruit scraped and in boxes should be stored away immediately to forestall the thieves.

Rosamond's Double Role

By RICHARD BALLINGER
© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Service

CLARK LARRIMER had met Celia Brady and Ethel, the youngest of that popular family, noted for its feminine pulchritude, but of Rosamond, the eldest, he had only heard echoes of her calm beauty. Men said she was a marble statue and that nothing could awaken her dreaming peace.

"My sister Rosamond?" Celia had repeated one day. "She's the dearest thing, but she wouldn't be interested in any of this," she waved her hand at the room full of dancers. Sometimes, when Clark was alone, the description given by gay Celia came back to him, and disliking the formidable picture of a bookish girl who was absent-minded and didn't care for dancing, he decided that fair Rosamond must lack a sense of humor. Having made this decision, fatal to any man's interest in any woman, no matter how fair she be, Clark finally dismissed the hope of meeting the eldest Miss Brady.

One afternoon when the fever of spring was in the air and he could not resist the call of the outdoors, Clark got into his car and rode out East avenue to the country club. The Brady residence was on East avenue and he had passed Mrs. Brady and the younger girls in the shabby car driven by a middle-aged colored man. The Bradys were poor in this world's goods, but, as they came of a good old family and had many rich relatives, the fatherless family went around a great deal and entertained occasionally in their lovely, decaying home.

Just as Clark reached the Brady residence he became aware that the machine needed water. The people in Westville were always neighborly, and as there was no public garage thereabouts, Clark jumped out and hastened up the gravelled drive and around to the back door. A girl was standing with her back to him hanging out a snowy washing of clothes.

"Good morning," he said in his pleasant voice. "May I have a pail of water? My car—" he did not finish the sentence. He paused in dismay, for the clothespins were removed from the loveliest of lips and the face turned to his was never that of an ordinary maidservant. Such rare beauty could only belong to the sister of Celia and Ethel. She saw his embarrassment and smiled gravely.

"Water? Certainly," she said in a voice which made his pulses tingle. "If you will come to the house I will give you a pail; there is water in the garage, but you may as well fill the pail in the kitchen." She led the way into the great kitchen, immaculately clean, where an ancient colored woman, crippled with rheumatism, sat in a comfortable armchair by the fire. She croaked hoarse protests when the girl gave Clark a shining pail.

"Please, be quiet, Aunt Heppy," chided the girl.

"I am sorry to trouble you—I didn't know that I might be intruding—I am acquainted with Mrs. Brady and her daughters and—"

"You must be coming to dinner tonight, then," suggested the girl. "I recognized you at once—I am Rosamond Brady," she held out a hand roughened with housework.

Clark took her hand. "May I stay a little while and be kitchen company?" he asked.

Rosamond looked doubtful. Then a wave of color invaded her fairness. "I shall be glad, Mr. Larrimer, but it would embarrass mother and the girls if it were known—you see, Heppy is crippled, so, as we cannot afford another maid, I come out and help. Heppy directs me and I love to cook. It gives the younger girls a chance to go about. I must fly around now because there is dinner to get. Can you mix mayonnaise?"

Clark washed his hands and rolled up his sleeves.

"If you will let me help you a little I'll forswear any knowledge of you and your dark plotting in this kitchen."

Clark never forgot that hour spent in the kitchen with lovely Rosamond Brady, with old Heppy nodding approvingly.

That night at the happy informal dinner party for which the Bradys were famous, waited on by the man who drove the car, Clark saw Rosamond again and she seemed another girl; she had retreated into his serious eyes, with a hidden appeal to her sleeping heart, brought her out, and gradually he saw her coldness melt before his eyes.

During the weeks that followed, Clark learned more about the interesting family of girls who maintained their social position on a depleted income, until there came a day when they had to unpack Mrs. Brady's own wedding dress and veil for Rosamond's bridal. After all, the "eldest Miss Brady," who had contentedly stayed at home in the kitchen, was the first bride, and Aunt Heppy, who had turned her into a famous cook, was almost as proud as Clark himself as the bride came up the aisle. "She looks

Invented the "Omnibus"

The word "omnibus" is Latin, signifying "for all" and is applied in several languages to vehicles for public passengers. The omnibus was invented by Blaise Pascal, who was also the inventor of the push cart and was granted letters patent by Louis XIV of France in 1662. While it was intended for poor people who could not afford the price of a "chair" or coach, its use by soldiers, pages, lackeys or other liveried servants, also artisans and porters, was forbidden by royal decree.

Cause of Waterspouts

Waterspouts at sea occur when opposite winds of different temperatures meet in the upper atmosphere, whereby a greater amount of vapor is condensed into a thick black cloud, to which a vertical motion is given. A partial vacuum is created in the center, which draws up the water in its vortex. When the waterspout has played itself out, it commences to disappear at the base, gradually traveling upward.

"High Noon" and "Noon"

The term "noon" is often loosely used to designate the noon hour, while "high noon" means twelve o'clock exactly. The noon hour, or middle hour, of the day has been considered important from early times and is spoken of as the Sext from the Hora Sexta of the Romans, which corresponds closely with our noon hour. As early as the Third century it was an hour of prayer.

Fort Massachusetts

Old Fort Massachusetts was built on Ship Island near Gulfport, Miss., 12 miles out in front of Gulfport, during President Pierce's administration, while Jefferson Davis was secretary of war. This fort has long since been dismantled except one or two large siege guns which are still in place and the building is still intact.

Switzerland's Individuality

Switzerland, a confederation of 22 autonomous and sovereign cantons, as a nation seems to defy every canon known to political science; ethnology, geography, creed, language, history and policy, all seem to negate the meaning of a nation; yet there is no European power whose future is more assured.

Oak Trees

There are about 300 species of oak trees spread over the entire northern hemisphere, except in the extreme North. They are more numerous in America than in Europe. Few are found in Asia. Australia has a few, tropical Africa none and South America none except near the Andes.

Sea Sled Is Seaworthy

A sea sled is considered seaworthy. It is not flat bottomed but, instead, the bottom is concave. It has a modified tunnel-like effect built in the fore part of the bottom of the boat, which tapers down so that the bottom of the after part of the boat is practically flat.

Manufactured Ice

The manufacture of ice as an industry was begun as early as 1806, but only reached a degree of commercial importance about 1880. The beginning was in the southern states, where natural ice was less available.

Permutation

Permutation shows in how many positions any number of things may be arranged in a row; thus, the letters A, B, C may be arranged in six positions, viz: ABC, ACB, CAB, CBA, BAC, BCA.

The Barrier

By JUNE MORTON

WHEN Janet got off the night train at the quiet little town of Martintown she went directly to her home. Had her neighbors known that she planned to return, there would have been many invitations extended to the lonely girl who was coming back alone after her trip abroad with her invalid mother.

The Scott home was at the very outskirts of the village and near only one house, the Smith house, which was next door, with large grounds and many trees about it. Therefore, when Janet set all her doors and windows wide open the next morning there was no one near enough to observe. "I suppose some one will see my smoke," thought the girl as she lighted the fire.

She bustled about, hoping to set the place in spotless order before the advent of the neighbors she longed to see, and it was nearly ten o'clock before she heard footsteps.

"Why, Janet Scott, why didn't you let us know you were coming home?" A pair of arms thrown warmly about the slim, blue-gowned Janet aroused her.

"I just came last night," she said. "I knew how good you would be, but I just thought I'd creep in and get it over with alone."

"I've been planning all morning and I can't bear to think of going away to teach; I want to be at home and I'm going to open a boarding house. What do you think of the plan?"

"There are several people I know of now. The hotel has been closed all winter and the teacher from the village school is looking about now for a place to board next fall—and—" Janet wondered why her old friend suddenly halted with twinkling eyes and stood as though thinking: "And what?" asked the girl.

"Nothing," was the evasive reply. "Didn't you feel afraid so far away from the other houses last night?" Janet shook her head.

"You know the Smith house has the name of being haunted. Did you hear anything?"

"No, I wonder why they don't rent it? Seems a shame for such a fine estate to fall into decay," returned Janet, a delicate pink staining her smooth cheeks as she recalled the quarrel between the two families. The feud had grown out of a mere trifle. A ball thrown by Janet's little brother had broken a pane of glass in the greenhouse, and touchy old Mrs. Smith had fussed and nagged until the families were on terms of bitter silence.

Amy, watching the telltale expressions flit over the young face, knew that Janet was thinking of the brown-eyed Frank Smith.

Janet, her mind a jumble of thoughts, hurried over her dusting. She wanted to get out into the old-fashioned garden and see the flowers that she had longed for on her trip home. The yellow roses, badly in need of pruning, swarmed up against the squat bush of flowering quince and trailed in long, thorny sprays along the thick grass that was dotted with blossoms of pink and white clover. To the east Janet's eyes wandered and fell on the thick row of lilacs that divided the Scott grounds from the Smith estate. "There, no one has touched those bushes for years," she thought, recalling the old happy times when Frank squeezed through the bushes that he persisted in calling lilac trees. "Those branches are growing over and spoiling my hedge. I guess I'll start right there with my trimming."

She worked steadily, and there was a growing pile of branches as tribute to her industry when an abrupt sound on the other side of the hedge startled her.

"What do you mean by touching my lilac trees?" The voice was masculine and touched with a crisp annoyance.

There was a crashing sound and a gray tweed arm made an opening in the tangle of blossoms and a pair of brown eyes peered through. "You sound mighty confident, but as I happen to be the—why, Janet, hello! I didn't know you were home," he ended with a glad note in his voice that brought a rush of roses to the face that had gone white.

"And I," returned Janet, "understood that your home was empty except for ghosts, so I thought I'd prune your lilacs for you. They are crowding my hedge," she added a bit tremulously as his dark eyes dwelt disconcertingly on her.

"There are ghosts in the house," he said, seriously, "ghosts of old memories—ghosts of an old love that has never been forgotten. I was just about to close up the old house and offer it for sale, as no one seemed to know where you were or when you would return. The folks seemed to think you would remain in France and I couldn't bear it here with your home close. Suppose, Janet, the dark eyes glowed and he took her hands in his, "suppose you come through the trees."

Control Cutworms With Poison Bait

Bran Mixture Is Suggested for Use on the Early Spring Crops.

By C. H. Brannon, Extension Entomologist, North Carolina State College—WNU Service

The use of a poisoned bran mixture to kill cutworms and prevent their damaging early vegetable crops is especially recommended.

Early in the spring, when the worms first get busy, the young plants are particularly susceptible to damage. Growers should watch their plants closely and apply the poisonous bait at the first sign of cutworms.

In experiments, best results have been obtained from a mixture of one pound of paris green to 50 pounds of bran. Sodium fluoride will also give good results, but lead arsenate and calcium arsenate should be avoided.

The poisoned bait should never be left where children or live stock can get at it.

About four pounds of bran-paris green bait should be applied to each 100 square yards of tobacco plant bed to control cutworms. No lumps will come in direct contact with the tender young plants.

For most other crops, the bait should be broadcast at the rate of 15 to 20 pounds to the acre. The bait should be applied a few days before the plants come up, or on the day they come up, at the latest. Applications are most effective in the evening so that the bait will be fresh when the worms go to work. New applications should be made after heavy rains.

The bran and poison should be well mixed while dry, then moistened with just enough water to dampen but not wet it. The mixed bait should not form large lumps or be sticky and mushy.

Test Proves Old Style

Corn Ears Out of Date

The model ear of corn of a few years ago is as much out of date as the motor car of the same period, and production methods are undergoing changes which increase the efficiency of the corn farmer as much as improved methods have benefited mechanical industries.

These facts are disclosed in a survey of the records of the ten-acre corn yield tests conducted in Nebraska during the past ten years. What is true of corn production is equally true of other branches of agriculture. P. H. Stewart, extension agronomist at the University of Nebraska, says:

The corn ear now most in demand for seed, Stewart points out, is no longer the longest ear. The emphasis is placed on smooth, hard starch, medium size ears. Ten years of experimentation in ten-acre tests have proved that corn from seed of this type shows in the best production records.

The result of the experimentation has been an increase in production and a decrease in the cost per bushel. Farmers have been able to reduce greatly the number of hours per acre of labor required to grow corn.

Alfalfa Long Favored

Alfalfa came into Greece from Asia and then was carried to Italy. Several Roman farmers told about their farming. They said, "Of all the legumes, alfalfa is the best because when it is sown it lasts ten years, because it can be mowed four times or even six times a year, and because it improves the soil." Plowing under crops for green manure was known to be good, especially before planting corn. Clover and field beans were recommended by the best Roman farmers as good cattle feed. They recommended a three-year rotation for crops; the land was left bare one year, planted to grain the next, and followed by some legume the third year. Many of the methods we consider quite modern to use on our farms, observes an authority, are really centuries old.—Exchange.

Land Checked New Way

Methods for estimating the area in fields of various shapes are explained in a new circular on "How to Calculate Field Areas," which has been issued by the University of Maryland extension service. It deals with triangular, rectangular and irregularly shaped fields and explains how to make the necessary corrections for fields that are sloping. The plan is helpful to farmers who have signed contracts to reduce their wheat production by aiding them in checking their acreage.

ARABIAN PENINSULA ENTICES EXPLORERS

Fruitful Field for Archeological Research.

Washington.—Whether or not French flyers have discovered the legendary capital of the Queen of Sheba, they have again called attention to the vast, forbidding Arabian peninsula, one of the richest areas for geographic and archeological exploration now left in the world," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"Arabia has been a lodestone for western exploration recently because back on its burning plateaus, in the scorching heat of hidden wadies (dry river beds) have been found strange tribesmen in cities of 'set-back skyscrapers,' eight to ten stories high. Obsolete warriors for centuries have entrenched themselves in these lofty forts that, at a distance, resemble modern New York apartment houses, from their imposing doorways to 'pent houses' and roof gardens.

Traces of Old Caravan Trails.

"Farther inland lie great areas of desolate desert, with 'singing sands' such as Marco Polo heard in the Gobi, and traces of ancient caravan trails that predate the era when Solomon derived gold and frankincense from Biblical Ophir. Two notable crossings of the huge Rub al Khali desert were made recently by Englishmen—one by Bertram Thomas and the other by H. St. John B. Philby.

"While the Americas were being discovered and explored, while the Poles were being attained and the Polar regions visited again and again, the Arabian peninsula, lying in the heart of the oldest known civilization, has remained almost unseen by white men. About 300,000 square miles of territory, equal to the combined areas of Germany and Italy, is blank or but vaguely sketched on modern maps. Yet some of the border lands and surrounding seas of this huge ellipse hum with activity.

"That Arabia has been able to guard its mysteries so long against the inquisitive westerner is due partly to the physical features of the country and partly to the religious fanaticism of its sparse population. Southern Arabia, now a desert, was probably fertile and well watered when Europe and large parts of Asia were still in the ice age, and it may well have been one of the earliest homes of civilized man. Climatic changes at a later date brought extreme dryness and a drift of sands from the north.

Dotted With Unstudied Ruins.

"The Arabian peninsula is dotted with ancient ruins, some of which have been seen only in passing. Only a few of these have been studied by scientists. Undoubtedly there are other ruins yet unexplored, some of them buried in the sand. One of the highroads of the Old world, the overland trade-route from India and Persia to Egypt and Syria, and to other countries around the Mediterranean, began in Hadramaut, in southeastern Arabia, and wound through the plateau, emerging at various points in the Near East. Hadramaut made its own contributions of frankincense, myrrh and aloes to this ancient world commerce.

"Some writers hold that in the southern quarter of Arabia was that Ophir rich in gold whose name, like that of Hadramaut itself, is known to us from the Old Testament. 'Hazarumaveth,' the tenth chapter of Genesis calls the latter. The Old Testament also mentions another Arabian land of mystery, Saba (Sheba), whose 'Queen of the South' traveled to Jerusalem on hearing of the wisdom and wealth of King Solomon. The land of Sheba is generally placed by modern authorities in the vague border land between the present day states of Hadramaut and Yemen.

"The Romans knew all of these prosperous provinces, naming them Arabia Felix, Happy Arabia, in contrast to the rest of the peninsula, which they called Arabia Deserta and Arabia Petraea, the Desert and Realm of Stone."

Strange Store "Birds"

Fascinated Bird Dog

Scottsbluff, Neb.—It was just a misunderstanding on the part of Spike, amiable, ownerless bird dog, when he gave chase to cash boxes whizzing overhead in Scottsbluff stores. But the misunderstanding made Spike a nuisance.

Spike, merchants complained, delighted to hunt the strange "birds" in their stores. He bolted down aisles, barking loudly. Clerks found it impossible to keep him out. Merchants found it difficult to keep customers when Spike appeared.

'Starving' Chinch Bugs Checks Loss

Legume Crop Diet Good Plan to Minimize the Threatened Raid.

By W. P. Flint, Entomologist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois—WNU Service

What threatens to be one of the most destructive invasion of chinch bugs can be headed off and widespread damage prevented or at least minimized if farmers will starve the bugs by limiting them to a "diet" of legume crops.

Unless the weather during May and June is wetter than usual, so as to drown out the bugs, they threaten to cause more damage than they have caused in any year during the past 50.

Farmers that are known to be in the heavily infested chinch bug area are being warned to include all the legumes possible in the field crops they grow during the coming season. This is one of the most effective and at the same time one of the least expensive methods that farmers can use in fighting the bugs.

If chinch bugs could be confined only to legumes during the coming season, they would not live any longer than a meat-eating animal would live on this same diet. Chinch bugs will not feed on any of the legumes, including alfalfa, soy beans, cowpeas, field peas, red clover, sweet clover, vetch or lespedeza. Neither will they feed on such other common field crops as rape, buckwheat, flax, sunflowers or stock beets.

The crops that are "meat" for chinch bugs and the only ones on which they feed are the grasses, and these grasses must be green with the sap flowing in them, as the chinch bug is a sucking insect and takes its food not by biting off and chewing up a bit of the leaf surface, but by inserting its beak in the grass plants and sucking out the sap. They feed on all the small grains, including barley, spring wheat, winter wheat, oats, rye, emmer and spelt. They will also feed on sorghum, broom corn, field corn, sweet corn, sudan grass and millet.

If corn and soy beans are planted together and a good growth of soy beans is obtained so that the beans shade the lower parts of the cornstalks, such shaded stalks will have fewer bugs than corn without soy beans. A heavy stand of sudan grass and soy beans will suffer only slightly from chinch bug damage, whereas sudan grass alone would be killed.

Urge Sanitary Measures

for Control of Garget

No one can estimate the economic loss caused by mastitis, commonly known as garget, say Prof. D. H. Udall and S. D. Johnson of the New York State Veterinary college. In some dairy cattle herds the loss is slight, they say, and in others it is severe.

Each herd, however, pays an unnecessary toll, and the total loss is enormous. Because of the hidden nature of the disease it may often go unnoticed.

When an owner says that a certain cow made a high record but was "burned out" by high feeding and never produced well again, the usual cause is mastitis. The disease is marked by repeated attacks that tend to appear when the cow is drying off, or shortly after she freshens, or when she is fed on a high protein diet, or when exposed to unusual strain. If the disease is active the milk may become watery or contain flakes.

The best evidence shows that infection occurs during milking, and extra precaution at milking is urged. Garget spreads less readily in herds milked by hand than in herds milked by a machine.

Home Lard Production

When lard is rendered at home, it should be graded and as much neutral lard as possible produced, says Miss Flora Carl of the Missouri College of Agriculture. Neutral lard is the lard rendered from internal fats at such low temperatures that it is almost, if not entirely, free of taste and odor. Neutral lard is of high quality but it is seldom that it can be purchased for cooking purposes, since most of it goes into the manufacture of oleomargarine. More lard can be extracted at a lower temperature if the fat is run through the sausage mill instead of chopping before rendering. The fat from the rinds is more difficult to extract and gives a softer and a cheaper grade of lard. The rinds can be rendered by roasting in the oven.

WOULD PROVE LAND OF MU WAS REALITY

Scientists Think Islands Part of Lost Continent.

New York.—Proof that the mythical land of Mu actually existed may, very shortly, be supplied.

Dr. Wolfgang von Hagen, director of the Darwin memorial expedition, which will erect a monument to the memory of Charles Darwin on Chatham island, stated that in addition to commemorating Darwin's visit to the islands the party will seek to prove that the Galapagos group, of which Chatham island is one, are the remains of the fabled continent.

The Galapagos islands, about 730 miles off the coast of Ecuador, are of particular interest to scientists because of the strange and abundant animal and plant life to be found there.

Mu, it will be recalled, has enjoyed much fame in the legends and fairy tales purveyed to children. Several pseudo scientific books have been written about it, however, and there has been much dissension among scientists as to whether or not Mu actually existed. Like Atlantis, Mu was supposed to have been swallowed by the ocean.

Comparison of insects, such as ticks, mites, spiders, butterflies, etc., on the island, with those on the mainland, Doctor Von Hagen explained, will be the method employed by the expedition in its efforts to prove Mu's one time being. For example, vertebrate (skeletal) material will be used in order to demonstrate the correlation between the structure and use and between the body form and environment of the insects inhabiting the Galapagos and those living on the Ecuadorian and surrounding coast.

Insect life, according to Doctor von Hagen, undergoes changes in structure very slowly. Therefore, if those specimens found on the islands compare in detail with those on the mainland, quite conclusive evidence will have been found, in Doctor Von Hagen's estimation.

Modern Plane Can Climb Using Only One Engine

Chicago.—That a fully loaded airplane, carrying ten passengers and a cargo of express shipments, cannot only maintain flying elevation with only one engine in operation, but actually gain elevation, has been demonstrated by Boeing twin-engined transports of United Air lines in service tests during the past few months.

At the end of 1933, installation of controllable pitch "gear shift" propellers was begun on the fleet of 60 modern transports operated over the New York-Chicago-Pacific coast and other airways of the company. A feature of the new type propeller is that the blades may be changed to different angles during flight to give increased cruising speed, faster rate of climb and better all-around performance.

The controllable pitch propellers are placed in "low gear" for take-offs, with the blades set at a relatively slight angle to make the plane climb more quickly. When the pilot reaches the proper flying elevation he shifts the propellers into "high gear," increasing the pitch of the blades and adding to the cruising speed of the plane.

Installation of the Hamilton controllable pitch propellers on the United planes has increased their cruising speed to 171 miles an hour and shortened time of takeoffs from 19 to 15 seconds.

Moscow Rivers Found

to Contain Gold in Sand

Moscow.—Gold has been discovered in the sands of rivers in various parts of the province of Moscow—even in streams which run through some suburbs of the city.

Some of these rivers were known to contain gold centuries ago, but long have been neglected. Now the entire population, particularly hikers, is being encouraged to search for gold. Discoverers will be permitted to retain part of the find after first submitting it to the Soviet gold trust.

Recent special investigations have revealed gold in small quantities available at 62 different points in European Russia.

Codling Moth Control

Orchardists are advised by the Department of Agriculture to give their orchards and premises a general clean-up for the purpose of reducing the codling moth. They are advised also to scrape loose bark from the trunks and larger branches of trees, thus crushing many of the worms in their cocoons. The worms that produce the moth are under loose flakes of bark, in crevices in the trunk, in dried stems of larger weeds and in partly decayed wood.

Acret, who has participated in some of Los Angeles' largest cases in the past ten years is noted in actual practice for his championing the oppressed.

He is former City Attorney of Venice and former District Attorney of Grays Harbor county in Washington. A member of the American Legion, he spent more than a year as a combat pilot in France during the World War.

Acret will run only against one opponent, the incumbent Justice Ira Thompson, appointed to fill a vacancy on the bench by the late Governor Rolph a year ago.

ALLEGED FOMENTERS OF LABOR TROUBLE TO FACE COURT

Four Hayward men, said to have fomented labor trouble at a number of fruit dryers in the Decoto district, were arraigned before Judge Allen G. Norris Monday on a charge of disturbing the peace.

The four, Ben Santiago, Anthony Cunha, Henry Rodriguez and Ben Borrers, pleaded guilty to the charge and were sentenced to ten days in the county jail. The complaint was sworn by Rufino Capas, who said the men were picketing his place.

The men told the court that they had been induced to cause a disturbance by communist leaders, who fled when the police approached.

Two of the alleged leaders were later apprehended and will be arraigned at the Centerville court tomorrow. They are Frank James and Faustina Ortiz.

Road Work in Township Boon to Local Drivers

Highway zone marking lines and center stripes are being repainted this week by state crews. Some of the railroad warning lines south of Niles had been almost obliterated.

Of great interest to local motorists who daily drive over the bridge, was the repair of the Western Pacific grade crossing. It had been in bad condition.

County crews have been busy during the past weeks repairing and widening a number of streets in Decoto.

E. E. Dias company recently laid down the foundation for large parking areas at the Washington high school.

Lira Home On Vallejo Street Periled By Fire

Niles firemen were called out Saturday morning when an alarm was sent in from Vallejo street, where the Lira home was periled by a roof blaze when sparks from the chimney apparently lodged in the shingles.

Neighbors kept the incipient blaze well under control until the smoke-eaters arrived. The damage was small.

Firemen stated, however, that a serious conflagration may have resulted, had the blaze got out of hand, as three houses, set extremely close together may have been destroyed.

Pleasanton Library Releases Report for June

Although a number of Pleasanton people are away on their vacations, the attendance at the Pleasanton branch of the Alameda County Free Library had a busy month during June, according to Librarian Abby L. Walker.

The library had an attendance of 1,157, twenty-three of whom were visitors.

A total of 792 books were let out and ninety magazines were taken by subscribers. Of the total books let out five hundred were fiction and 220 juvenile.

The report shows that there was an increase in the number of books read by the juvenile department since school closed.

Mrs. Walker gave out seven new applications

"It cuts our family food bill because now we can use more farm meats and produce."

"It gives me about three times more storage space for my money—how's that for a real buy?"

"It saves money, time and work in preparing meals—and they're better meals, too."

"It helps me sell more fancy produce and at better prices—I'll say it earns its way."

Built in EARNING POWER

HERE'S GOOD NEWS if you thought you couldn't afford an electric refrigerator. Several leading manufacturers have built a brand new FARM refrigerator. It has all the important features of the University of California design, plus many new improvements. We promise that it surpasses anything you have ever seen before.

The Farm "25"—smallest of the new models, is pictured above. Here is an ideal size for the average farm. Ruggedly constructed for a lifetime of heavy-duty service, it is nevertheless extremely inexpensive. And it may be operated for as little as 5c a day.

The Farm "25," however, is only one of the new models. Others are available up to 125 cubic feet capacity. Or if you are handy with tools, you can even build one yourself—we will supply the plans. The important thing is to get an electric refrigerator on the job at once. California winters are no protection against food-spoilage and the losses in summer are tremendous.

MISSSES BOTELHO FETE FRIEND AT BRIDGE LUNCHEON

The Misses Sybil and Antoinette Botelho, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Botelho, of Centerville, complimented Miss Grace Long, of San Jose, fiancée of Otis Benson Smith, of Weed, California, at a lovely party at their home here recently.

The guests were bidden for luncheon, which was served at small tables having as their centerpieces small bouquets of pansies. During the luncheon hour, the Paramount quartette of San Jose sang several songs. Douglas Nunes, afterward presented the bride-elect with a silver tray piled with gifts. The tray was decorated to resemble an engagement ring.

Bride was enjoyed in the garden, and favors were awarded to Miss Ruth Koehle and Miss Orpha Keller.

Those present on the occasion were: Mrs. Ethel Brown, of Jacksonville, Florida; Mrs. D. L. Long, Mrs. Orpha Keller, Mrs. Justin Byers, of Gilroy; Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. Joseph Mitchell, of Williams; Misses Marian Marcotte, Ruth and Naomi Koehle, of Santa Clara; Carol Murdock, of Cupertino, and Miss Grace Long.

Mrs. Botelho assisted her daughters at the reception.

Congressman Albert E. Carter was a visitor in Centerville Saturday. He visited with Jack Soito, in regard to the latter's claim for veterans compensation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Coney, formerly of Centerville, visited here Sunday. Coney, a former president of the Centerville Chamber of Commerce, had been a prominent merchant here.

ASSOCIATION WILL NAME SUCCESSFUL BIDDER TONIGHT

Lacking a quorum to decide on bids offered for the old Centerville town hall Monday morning, the Ladies' Town Hall Association will meet tonight to name the purchaser from among a number of local people who offered to buy the historic structure.

In view of the fact that the building is very old and lacking in fixtures and lumber that wreckers seek, it is thought that the price will be low.

The hall was offered recently, with the stipulation that the successful bidder remove it from the lot within 90 days after the day of sale.

Frank Dusterberry, Allen G. Norris and Tom Silva were among the guests of the S. E. S. society at Newark early last week. The occasion was a steak barbecue.

4TH OF JULY BLAZE IMPERILS PACKING HOUSE DISTRICT

A raging fire, said by firemen to have been started by a fire-cracker, threatened the packing house district of Centerville on July Fourth.

Starting in a small garage behind the H. P. Garin plant at the end of Walton avenue, the blaze imperiled $40,000 worth of equipment and stock. Had the flames succeeded in getting beyond control, both the Garin plant and the Williams brothers packing house adjoining would have been lost, according to Frank Madruga, assistant fire chief. Madruga added that occurrence of the blaze on July 4 found many of the firemen away from home. He estimated the damage at $200.

The blaze was noticed by Delbert Oliveira, who turned in the alarm and then with great presence of mind, began to back five trucks to safety. He was assisted by firemen who arrived at the scene, and all of the vehicles were saved.

Rumors that a fire plug would be installed at the end of Walton avenue for greater protection in that district were declared untrue by Madruga, who stated that an examination proved such installation not feasible due to the fact that the buildings loomed too close to the narrow street. He said that a major fire would render the street impassable to the fire trucks. He stated that ample lengths of hose would be protection enough.

Depression Hits Santa Monica PELICANS

There's a story that comes out of Southern California. It's about the pelicans of Santa Monica Bay and these pelicans remind us of a lot of us human beings. The experience teaches us that more and better sales effort is required of every last one of us.

For years these pelicans had been fed by fishermen from their surplus catch, until they got the habit of eating without work.

This year high seas changing currents off Santa Monica cut down the catch, and fishermen no longer had any fish to spare. They noticed that the pelicans languished and grew thin and it dawned on them that they had forgotten how to fish for themselves. So they went down the coast and found some unpampered pelicans who had never been ruined by easy living and free fish. They turned them loose among the starving birds, who sat about on the beach and complained of hard times.

The way those imported pelicans went out after their own fish was an eye-opener. Pretty soon the hungry natives quit watching and tried it themselves. They discovered there are plenty of fish in the sea for the bird with energy and enterprise. And they've quit talking about the hard times."

ANNUAL REPORT OF FIRE DISTRICT RELEASED

Activities of the Decoto Fire Department during the fiscal year, July 1, 1933, to June 30, 1934, were listed at a meeting of the Decoto Fire Commissioners on July 5.

The annual report was submitted by Roland Bendel, fire chief. It reads as follows:

Alarms responded to: 17; miles traveled: 38; gallons of water pumped: 62,000 from hydrants, 2,190 gallons from booster tank.

Hose lines stretched, 2½ inch, 400 feet; 1½ inch 1,600 feet. Losses estimated: $6,560.00, resulting primarily from two fires, one at the Robelle chicken ranch and the other at the Willett and Burr plant. Other fire losses were nominal, the report reads.

The large factory fire at the Kraft plant to which the department responded, being outside the Decoto district limits, was not charged to Decoto fire losses.

During the summer months, the report stated, at least one man was stationed for duty at the firehouse on Sundays and holidays.

Improvement Club Protests Scorching of Roadside Trees

That people who burn grass along the roads should take more care to prevent the scorching of roadside trees was the main topic of discussion by members of the Pleasanton Women's Improvement club at a meeting at the City Hall last Tuesday afternoon, according to Mrs. Mary Stovall, president.

The members pointed out that trees along the roads had been scorched, a condition which ruined their appearance. The women also pointed out that this practice was harmful to the growth of the trees.

It was decided that letters be sent to the Board of Supervisors of Alameda county protesting against burning the trees along the roads.

The meeting Tuesday was the final one this summer. The next session will be held on the fourth Tuesday of August.

Following the meeting tea was served. The hostesses were Mrs. Paul Pelle, Mrs. A. B. Pickard and Mrs. Claude Smallwood.

California Has Biggest Refrigerator Factories

Two of the largest ice refrigerator factories in the nation are located right here in California. This year they're both working twenty-four hours a day. And even then, they're weeks behind with their orders.

All of which should be an extra satisfaction to you women who bought one of the new gleaming white, low-temperature ice refrigerators this season. For chances are that the building of your ice refrigerator meant the purchase of raw materials in this state and the payment of wages to California workmen. In other words, the dollars you spent are pretty sure to be still circulating right here. And you're apt to meet them again any day as part of your own income.

STARS TROUNCED BY RUSSELL CITY NINE SUNDAY

Faced again with a shortage of players, the Niles Lone Stars went down to a decisive defeat Sunday afternoon at the hands of the Russell City team.

Hitting steadily, the Russell nine was at no time in danger of losing the contest. In an attempt to stem the mounting tide of runs, manager Joe Machado, of the Stars, used three men on the mound, Reno Quarteroll, George Crane and Frank Lewis.

Among new players discovered during the contest was Frank Ferry, who held down the key-stone sack for the Stars. Ferry, who stated that he was inexperienced, handled himself well. He had nine chances and made them all good. He got two hits in four tries.

Machado stated following the game, that he plans to add a number of players to his team.

FARM PRICES ON UPSWING, AVERS LOCAL BANK HEAD

Prices received by California farmers for twenty-four basic products during the month of May reached the highest point since February, 1932, according to F. T. Dusterberry, manager of Centerville branch of Bank of America.

"The farm price index for the twenty-four California commodities increased almost ten percent above the April level," the banker said. "At 77.8 per cent of the July, 1910-June, 1915, average, the index figure was at the highest point of more than two years."

"The California farmer received higher prices last month than in April for his wheat, hay, alfalfa, potatoes, apples, oranges, lemons, cottonseed, eggs, milk, cows, horses and mules. Average prices were lower, however, on cotton, sweet potatoes, hogs, veal calves, sheep and lambs, wool and chickens."

A high point in national agricultural prices was reached in March of this year, with 76.8 per cent of the 1910-1915 average, he pointed out. In May, the national price index stood at 73, which is a decline of seven tenths of a point from April and is on a par with prices of last November.

The May index for the United States, however, was 11.9 points, or 19 1/2 per cent, higher than May of 1933, and was almost 48 per cent above the depression low point registered in February, 1933.

Renovations at Niles Courthouse Finished

Constable O. W. Ebright and Deputy Sheriff Hugo Radbruch have taken up their new quarters at the recently renovated Niles court house. They have a spacious office adjoining that of the justice of the peace. Heretofore Ebrights desk was in the open courtroom.

In making the necessary changes to allow for more office space, the courtroom was reduced in size by two feet. The difference is hardly noticeable.

The entire building and the garages adjoining were painted.
